10. SPECIFIC RULES CONCERNING TOPPING-UP AND MAKING TRANSACTIONS WITH PAYMENT CARDS. 3-D SECURE SECURITY MEASURES

10.1. If the User chooses the payment card channel for topping up the e-wallet, EMPS will make this channel available through the agency of the relevant Intermediary Institution involved in the payment system which is appropriate for payment cards.

10.2. The Intermediary Institutions have a right to refuse to admit the Customer to the card payment system or to demand that the Customer be excluded from the system at any time and for whatever reason, particularly if the Intermediary Institution believes that the Customer's business is exposed to a high risk and to Chargebacks, and if the Customer breaches the laws and/or fails to comply with the standards set by the Institutions, has inadequate financial liquidity and/or perpetrates fraudulent practices.

10.3. EMPS shall comply with the rules related to the security of payment transactions and the minimising of the risk of Chargebacks provided for by the Intermediary Institutions and the payment transaction security standards implemented by the Card Organizations. Under the pain of expulsion from the card payment system, EMPS may prohibit the Customer from conducting specific activity which the Card Organizations may deem to be violating or threaten to violate the rights of such organizations, including their reputation, or otherwise expose them to risk.

10.4. EMPS shall observe the security requirements included in the Payment Card Industry Data Security Standards (PCI DSS).

10.5. EMPS shall closely cooperate with the Intermediary Institutions and the Card Organizations, including Visa and MasterCard, in order to resolve any doubts connected with payments made with payment cards, including related complaints. In this respect, EMPS shall, without delay, at the request of the Intermediary Institution and/or the Card Organization in question, provide necessary information, supply documents related to the payment transaction concerned, including the contract which the payment results from and proof of performance for which the payment was made.

10.6. A Merchant supporting top-ups / card payments shall observe the following rules of acceptance of card payments:

- a. it is prohibited to retry a payment with a payment card if such a payment has previously been rejected by the Intermediary Institution;
- b. it is prohibited to accept payment with payment cards in consideration of goods or services which the Merchant does not offer for its own account or as part of its business, which are sold by order of a third party or which are supplied by various suppliers; in particular, the Merchant may not submit instructions for the settlement, with one payment, of the sale of the Merchant's own products or services along with the transactions of sale of goods or services of other suppliers, including parties related to the Merchant (no cross-selling);
- c. the commercial offering of the Merchant may not give an impression that the Card Organizations are the suppliers of the goods or services offered by the Merchant;
- d. it is prohibited to set a lower or upper limit on the transaction amount in regard to payments by payment card;
- e. it is prohibited to accept so-called split transactions, i.e. accept payment for goods or a service in several separate payments;
- f. it is prohibited to require the Customer to waive the right to dispute a payment with payment card;

- g. if the Merchant offers recurring payments for goods or services, the Merchant must additionally explain on its website how one can cancel such a recurring payment online, how one can cancel a recurring order for goods/services online, and the Merchant must immediately stop initiating recurring payments as soon as the Customer cancels the recurring orders;
- h. if the Merchant has some restrictions in place on the return of goods or cancellation of the services, the Merchant must explicitly communicate to the cardholder the rules of return, reimbursement and cancellation as follows: in the sequence of pages, prior to finalising the transaction, a “click to accept” button should be displayed, it must be a voluntary selection box or another unequivocal confirmation of the Customer’s will to accept the transaction. What may also serve as confirmation is a link to a separate site provided that it is part of the “click to accept” confirmation and it is related to the rules of return, reimbursement or cancellation.

10.7. EMPS has the right to refuse a payment card transaction, and EMPS shall inform the Customer about it without delay, if the relevant Intermediary Institution refuses to authorize the payment, especially if the payment card is invalid, has been reported lost or stolen, the card authorization cannot be obtained or if authorization is denied, or the result of the 3-D Secure authentication is negative, if it is detected in the course of monitoring that the payment may be fraudulent or if EMPS deems that the completion of the transaction will cause the transaction limit acceptable to EMPS to be exceeded.

10.8. Card payments online are additionally secured thanks to the implementation of the 3-D Secure authentication procedure. Transactions must be confirmed with a one-off password sent in a text message to your telephone number. Owing to such security measures, no one will make a transaction in your name until you authorize it.

10.9. EMPS has the right to take any action to minimize negative effects of possible Chargebacks, especially by initiating a Refund - without being liable to the Customer in this regard, especially if the Customer has exceeded the percentage limit of Chargebacks acceptable to the Intermediary Institution and there are no grounds to conclude that the Customer may successfully challenge a Chargeback or if the Customer fails to take any action to successfully challenge the Chargeback.

10.10. EMPS does not provide any warranty, whether explicit, implicit or statutory, including in particular any implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose and not breaching any third party rights. No information or advice provided by EMPS or its personnel orally or in writing represents a warranty nor increases in any way the scope of EMPS’s obligations resulting from the provision of services.

10.11. EMPS does not guarantee that the payment will be finalized nor does it guarantee that the Intermediary Institution will complete the payment. The User discharges EMPS from any liability in this regard.

10.12. EMPS is not a party to the agreement between the Merchant and its customer and EMPS is not liable for any negligent performance of obligations by either of the parties. In particular, EMPS shall not be responsible for any goods and services offered by the Merchant nor the contents of the Merchant’s website.

10.13. EMPS shall not resolve any complaints and shall not be liable for any claims concerning any negligent performance of any agreements between the Customer and third parties in connection with which a Payment was made, if the Customer correctly authorized such payment.

17. RETURN / CHARGEBACK/ REFUNDS POLICY:

17.1. A payment made through the agency of EMPS cannot be cancelled by the Customer and/or Merchant on their own otherwise than by way of Refund and/or Chargeback.

17.2. A Chargeback is a way to obtain a refund for payment transactions made online with a payment card and it allows the Customer to recover money from an unreliable seller through the agency of the Intermediary Institution or a Card Organization. Such protection is only available in regard to card payments. After a complaint is registered, if permitted by the regulations of the Card Organization (whose logo is presented on the payment card used in the transaction – VISA or MasterCard, as appropriate), the Chargeback procedure begins. In the course of the procedure, EMPS sends the complaints to the system of the relevant Card Organization via the Intermediary Institution. Following the lodging of a Chargeback complaint, the card issuer determines the facts of the disputed transaction and based on the evidence collected, the card issuer decides whether the customer's complaint is legitimate or not.

17.3. In such cases, the Customer has the right to claim a refund on the basis of the Chargeback procedure (only applicable to card payments):

- a. a discrepancy has occurred between the correct amount (or currency) of the transaction and the one paid by card,
- b. the transaction has been settled more than once,
- c. the transaction has been settled in a different amount or currency than the one accepted by the customer when originating the transaction,
- d. the service or product paid for by card has not been delivered,
- e. the acquirer has sent a settlement of a transaction which was earlier cancelled,
- f. the customer tried to pay for the goods or service by card but the transaction failed and the customer paid for the goods or service in another way. Nevertheless, the card has been debited for the failed transaction,
- g. the customer has been charged for a service which the customer did not order,
- h. the purchase has been sent back but the money has not been refunded.

17.4. When verifying a Chargeback claim, EMPS may request the Customer whose card was used in the disputed transaction to provide additional documents related to the event without delay, including:

- a. confirmation of the cancellation of the card transaction, if the transaction was cancelled,
- b. the code or number of the cancellation of the card transaction, if the transaction was cancelled,

- c. confirmation of card payment,
- d. confirmation of the fact that the card transaction was not completed,
- e. confirmation of the return of the goods or cancellation of the service - if the goods were returned or the service cancelled.

17.5. The Customer must produce the required documents within 7 days of the date of receipt of the request from EMPS, unless the Customer requests an extension of the time limit. If the Customer fails to provide the requested documents to EMPS, this may prevent the completion of the complaint procedure according to the regulations of the Card Organizations and result in refusal to accept the claim.

17.6. In the event of a complaint regarding a card transaction which the Customer denies having made, EMPS may request the Customer to provide a document, within 7 business days, confirming that a report was made to the law enforcement authorities that the card transaction was made by an unauthorized person and the card has been reported lost or stolen.

17.7. The Chargeback procedure may not be acknowledged by the Card Organizations in all cases where a card transaction was made. If the complaint is rejected and the chargeback procedure cannot be applied, this shall not be a basis for EMPS's liability. The Customer shall release EMPS from all liability for any negative consequences of the refusal to accept a chargeback complaint.

17.8. All refunds to the Customers for transactions with a Merchant shall be subject to the following rules:

- a. the Merchant shall be solely responsible for refunds, including any extra charges or penalties related to such refunds charged by EMPS or the Intermediary Institutions; this is particularly the case of Refund or Chargeback fees;

- f. all the refunds handled by EMPS for the Merchant shall result in an appropriate reduction of the balance of the Merchant Account. If the Merchant has already been paid the funds for the payment subject to refund, the relevant amount will be deducted from the subsequent disbursement. If the funds earmarked for future disbursements prove to be insufficient to cover the cost of the refund, then the Merchant shall pay the remainder on the basis of an invoice or debit note issued by EMPS by the date stated in the invoice (in any case not sooner than 7 days),
- g. EMPS reserves a right to terminate the Agreement forthwith in the event that EMPS does not receive payment for the unrealized refund by the date stated in the invoice.

17.9. If the Customer reports a claim, including a refund request in connection with a payment made at the Merchant's, EMPS shall be entitled to lock funds in the Merchant Account as necessary to cover the full amount of the claim. The placement of such a lock will not limit the Merchant's ability to dispose of any other funds in the Merchant Account in excess of the disputed amount.

17.10. Funds may be locked in the Merchant Account when reasonably necessary in order to protect EMPS or the Intermediary Institutions against a risk of liability. This includes in particular instances of the risk of liability in connection with card payments where the risk may last at least until the lapse of the time available for a Chargeback or Refund operation.

17.11. EMPS shall release the locked funds when EMPS deems that the transaction risk or the risk connected with the User / Merchant or its business has ceased to exist. The User / Merchant must closely cooperate with EMPS in order to determine if said risk has ceased to exist, especially by providing necessary information or documents which may reasonably be requested given the circumstances of the case.

17.12 If, after receiving a complaint concerning a payment service, EMPS locked funds in the Customer's e-wallet corresponding to the total amount of credit due to the complaint, then:

- a. if the complaint is accepted, EMPS will unlock that amount,
- b. if the complaint is rejected or the Intermediary Institution has made a direct refund into the account, EMPS shall unlock the amount and debit the Customer's e-wallet for the disputed charge or payment transaction with a commission, if any, charged on the basis of the disputed payment transaction.
- c. has paid the disputed charge or transaction amount with commission assessed on the basis of the disputed payment transaction, then if the complaint is rejected or the Intermediary Institution or another entity has made a direct refund, EMPS shall debit the e-wallet for that amount with the value date of the crediting of the e-wallet regardless of the account balance,
- d. did not credit the Customer's account with the disputed charge or transaction with a commission charged on the basis of the disputed payment transaction, then if the complaint is accepted, EMPS shall credit the e-wallet with the amount of the disputed charge or transaction amount including commission assessed on the basis of the disputed payment transaction.

17.13. EMPS shall notify the Customer about the resolution of the complaint in writing, by e-mail to the address of the person making the complaint or by sending a message via the User's Panel.

17.14. If the Customer's complaint is accepted, the date when the claim will be paid will be stated in the response to the complaint. The time limit for the satisfaction of the Customer's claim is maximum 30 days of the date of the response to the complaint.
